Detail Itinerary

The Api and Saipal Base camp trek is a challenging and lesser-known trekking route that takes you to the base of two of the most beautiful peaks in the far western Nepal, Saipal and Api. The trek is designed for experienced trekkers who are looking for an off-the-beaten-trek path adventure and want to explore the remote and rugged landscapes of western Nepal. It is an anti clock treking from Saipal to Api Base Camp.

The trek starts in the town of Chainpur from where drive through, which is located in the far-western region of Nepal. From Panalta, you will trek through the beautiful Bajhang and Api Nampa Conservation, which is home to a wide variety of flora and fauna, including the snow leopard and the red panda. The trail is well-marked but can be challenging at times, as it involves steep ascents and descents.

As you trek higher, the landscape becomes more and more breathtaking. You will pass through lush forests, alpine meadows, and snow-capped peaks. The trail also takes you through traditional villages, where you will have the opportunity to learn about the local culture and customs.

The highlight of the trek is reaching the base camp of Saipal and Api, where you will have the opportunity to see the peaks up close. From the base camp, you will be able to see the surrounding peaks, including Rara and Rishi Pahari. The trek offers an opportunity to explore the hidden and unspoiled beauty of the western Nepal.

The trek is a moderate to challenging and it takes about a month trip in Nepal and about a month to complete from your arrival day to departure. You may customize the duration a couple of days. It is recommended to be physically fit before undertaking the trek as it involves walking for long hours on steep trails. The best time to do the Saipal and Api Base camp trek is between September and November or March and May when the weather is the most favorable.

The trek offers an unforgettable experience that will take you through some of the most beautiful landscapes in the world, and give you a glimpse of the hidden beauty of western Nepal. The trek is a perfect opportunity for those who are looking for an off-the-beaten-path adventure and want to explore the remote and rugged landscapes of Nepal.

In conclusion, the Saipal and Api Base camp trek is a unique and challenging trekking route that takes you to the base of two of the most beautiful peaks in western Nepal. It is an unforgettable experience that will take you through some of the most beautiful landscapes in the world, and give you a glimpse of the hidden beauty of western Nepal.
