Detail Itinerary

An Off-the-Beaten-Path Eco Community Trek

The Mohare Danda Trek is a peaceful, community-based eco-trail set between the majestic Dhaulagiri and Annapurna mountain ranges. Positioned as a perfect alternative to the heavily trodden Poon Hill trail and road-affected routes, this trek offers pristine forest walking, authentic rural village immersion, and spectacular panoramic mountain vistas.

Located just 3 kilometers away from Poon Hill at a higher elevation (3,300m), Mohare Danda provides even wider views of Dhaulagiri, Annapurna Massif, and the Pokhara valley in a quiet, undisturbed setting.

Highlights of Mohare Danda Trek

- Eco Community Lodges: Stay in clean, community-run lodges and homestays that support rural villagers directly and serve fresh, organic meals.
- Uncrowded Sunrise Point: Experience uninterrupted sunrise views over the Dhaulagiri and Annapurna ranges, far from the busy crowds of Poon Hill.
- Vibrant Rhododendron Forests: Hike through dense pine and rhododendron forests that bloom in vibrant shades of red and pink between late February and April.
- Inspirational Nangi Village: Visit Nangi village, the birthplace of Magsaysay Award winner Mahabir Pun, who pioneered wireless internet and IT networking across rural Nepalese communities.
- Reliable Communication: Enjoy the unique benefit of eco-community wireless internet connectivity right along the mountain ridge.

Authentic Sustainable Tourism

Because the lodges and organic farms are owned and managed by the local community, every step of your trek directly benefits the rural villages of Nangi, Ramche, and surrounding settlements. It is an ideal journey for nature lovers, eco-travelers, and anyone seeking a peaceful Himalayan escape.
