Detail Itinerary

Exploring the Remote Wilderness and Tashi Lapcha Pass

The Rolwaling Trek is one of the rarely walked trekking trails in Nepal, rewarding trekkers with unmatched tranquility, breathtaking peak views, rich local cultures, and diverse flora and fauna. Reaching elevations up to 5,755m through thick forest cover with steep vertical ascents, this adventure includes crossing the demanding Tashi Lapcha Pass at 5,640m, located to the west of the Khumbu region. This trek requires prior high-altitude experience, physical fitness, and a special peak climbing permit. The autumn months from September to November offer the best weather conditions for clear skies and stunning views.

Stunning Himalayan Panoramas and Cultural Immersion

The Rolwaling Tashi Lapcha trek winds through the stunning Rolwaling Valley before connecting with the classic Everest Base Camp trekking path. It provides striking views of majestic peaks including Mount Everest, Nuptse, Lhotse, Gauri Shankar, Langtang Lirung, Dorje Lakpa, Ama Dablam, and Thamserku. Trekkers also experience a unique blend of Tibetan Sherpa culture while walking through vibrant rhododendron forests.

Designed by Nepal Kailash Trekking, this challenging journey offers a remarkable way to explore a less crowded Himalayan frontier. Traversing the Tashi Lapcha Pass rewards you with fabulous vistas of Tengi Ragi Tau (6943m), Dragkar-Go (6793m), and Bigphero-Go Shar (6729m) across gentle slopes and glacial terrain for an unforgettable adventure.
